

Porshe Taylor – Biography

Porshe Taylor stands as a beacon of hope and innovation in the realm of criminal justice reform. As the mastermind behind Prison From-The-Inside-Out, Inc. (FTIO), she has dedicated her life to advocating for those impacted by the system. With a heart for collaboration, Porshe united with groups like S.T.O.P. and co-founded the California Impacted Families Project, amplifying the voices of affected families. In a transformative two-year cleanse beginning in 2019, Porshe abstained from all toxins, deepening her spiritual connection. It was during this period that she received divine inspiration, leading to the creation of FTIO. With unwavering faith, she nurtured her brainchild from a mere website into a groundbreaking non-profit. Her pioneering work earned her the distinction of being the first African American woman to develop a CDCR-approved curriculum for correctional facilities, marking a significant stride in rehabilitation efforts. Porshe also ventured into the social enterprise space with Mary Mac Transitional Homes in 2020, offering a haven for sobriety in San Joaquin County, where she leads as Owner and Executive Director. Her entrepreneurial spirit extends to consulting for social justice entities, janitorial services, and entertainment venues. Juggling these ventures with a public administration role, Porshe serves a community in need while continuously fostering innovative programs through FTIO. Her unwavering commitment to reducing recidivism and bringing forth meaningful change to the lives of the incarcerated cements her status as a visionary leader, driven by her God-given purpose.
